

Developing Middle Leaders

Level Two

A professional leadership development programme for experienced middle leaders

Are you a current middle leader responsible for leading a team of staff with some experience of the role – then this is the programme for you. Supported by the latest research this innovative programme looks at the psychology of leadership. It will help you develop your confidence and leadership skills and enable you to improve your ability to lead and manage change.

Who can apply?

This programme is for you if you are currently a middle leader with some experience of the role. You will be responsible for leading/managing a team of staff e.g. heads of subject, year, faculty, house or cross curricular teams in any phase. Also suitable for professional support staff who have been leading a team of administrators or teaching assistants for a minimum of two years.

The programme will help you to:

- Deepen your understanding of your role in leading learning
- Increase your ability to lead, manage and develop people in your team
- Develop your confidence in having difficult conversations
- Plan for your own personal leadership development

What do participants say about the programme?
